IN SPITE OF WEATHER THE JAPANESE PARTY WAS SUCCESS

Many Attend Special Festivities on Brilliantly Illuminated Lawn

FINE PROGRAM WAS FEATURE

The Japanese Garden Party began promptly at 7 p. m. as was previously announced, and by eight o'clock a large number of people had assembled. Unfortunately just as the crowd had assembled, drops of rain began to fall which created considerable uncertainty as to whether it would be possible to proceed with the program. Some of the people began to disperse at once while others remained until the showers passed by and then the crowd increased considerably. It must be said that the women did not have a fair opportunity to demonstrate what they had really planned, and yet it must be said, considering the circumstances, that the Japanese Garden Party was a success.

The Women's Council wishes to thank Mrs. Gilbert for the use of her beautiful lawn and porch and her Southern hospitality. Two orchestras furnished music, which added greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion and the committee in charge wishes to thank both of them for their services and also for the use of the Schroeder piano. The singing was of a high order, and the management wishes to thank Miss Ethel Barth, Mrs. A. G. Lewis and the Bosson children for their important roles in the program. Mrs. Leith deserves great credit for the Sunbonnet drill. The Boy Scouts were active in serving lemonade and as general errand boys about the grounds The committee is anxious to thank all those who contributed chairs and tables. Mr. Barnett of the Walton Lumber company and Mr. Byerly of the Charleroi Lumber company deserve special commendation because of their contributions in the form of booths and tables. The candy and cake was very delicious, and all the ladies who in any way contributed are most highly commended by the committee in charge. The electricians, Mr. Sharp, Mr. Lewis. and Mr. Leith worked long and hard to illuminate the grounds and are therefore worthy of the highest praise.

The Women's Council will meet on next Monday evening, June 27th, at which time a full report of the party will be given.

PIRATE MIDGETS WIN OPENING GAME

The Pirate Midgets won their opening game last evening by defeating the Eighth Street Stars by a score of 28-27. Banjo was back of the bat for the Pirates, while Duttine and Castio pitched. The Midgets want games from all 12 to 15 year old teams.

MALTAS WILL ATTEND CHURCH SERVICES

Members of Valley Echo Commandery, No. 379, Knights of Malta, will attend service in a body at the First Christian church on Sunday evening, June 26th. The members will meet at the Malta Temple at 7:15 o'clock, and from there march to the church in a body, the service being scheduled to take place at 8:00 o'clock fast time. All members of the Dames of Malta and friends have also been requested to attend these services.

NEW OFFICERS FOR S. S. CONVENTION

The second day of the Youghiogheny Baptist Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. convention opened with a large attendance Thursday morning at the high school building. Throughout the day R. W. Sanders, in his spirited manner of leading the singing, injected much enthusiasm into all of the sessions, in spite of the excessive heat.

Raymond Primas welcomed the delegates in behalf of the Sunday school of the Metropolitan Baptist church and was responded to by Andrew Coles of Connellsville. The remainder of the morning was taken up in the appointment of committees, and the Superintendents' conference.

Among the superintendents taking part in the meeting is James Whitfield. R. D. Flint, George Turner. William Stockton and J. C. Reynolds.

The feature of the afternoon was the annual address by the President. Ansel Chambers. Among his suggestions was a recommendation for the education of the race, and he strongly advocated the support of foreign missions.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were:

President, Ansel Chambers; first vice-president, Chas. H. Humes; second vice-president, James T. Crable; third vice-president, Dennis Colmes; song leader. R. W. Saunders; secretary. Miss Maude Wright; assistant secretary, Miss Lucy Massie; corresponding secretary, Miss Lealure G. Settle; treasurer, Moses Moon; adult superintendent, George Graves; B. Y. P. U. superintendent, Mrs. N. J. McClure; teacher training superintendent, Rev. A. J. Payne; missionary superintendent, Mrs. Kate Johnston; temperance, Mr. Williams; field secretary, Beatrice Bush; secondary department, Mrs. Sarah Saunders. The educational sermon was delivered by Rev. Chas. Crabb of Cleveland. He advocated support of all measures advanced for the higher education of the race.

The Gleaners of the First Christian Church will hold a bake sale in the basement of the church Saturday afternoon. June 25. 17t1*

Curb Market Open in Morning at Sixth Street

The Curb Market will be open on Tuesday and Saturday of each week. Tomorrow being Saturday, the curb market will be open to the public, and those who wish to buy are asked to come to Sixth street at eight o'clock, where the following produce will be sold at the curb: rhubarb, onions, peas, beans, carrots, buttermilk, and young chickens.

The women are asked to come with their baskets at the above named time to secure their fresh vegetables, and Joseph Haube, the chairman of the Farmers' Committee of the Chamber of Commerce has made arrangements with Vernon Hugus, William Castell, Joe Gavalock, Mrs. Norman C. Brown and others to be present with the freshest and juiciest quality of vegetables.

The general public is asked to create a public opinion in favor of the curb market, and while they may not be such a great quantity of produce at present, yet the farmers assure us that within the next two weeks they will have an abundance of produce to bring to Charleroi.

DOCTOR BASH WILL SPEAK HERE SUNDAY

Dr. Appleton Bash, Pittsburgh area Centenary Secretary of the Methodist Episcopal church, will speak in the Charleroi Methodist Episcopal church on Sabbath evening, this being Anniversary Day in this congregation.

Dr. Bash is one of the strong men of the Pittsburgh conference. He was pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Beaver for eight years, also served the M. E. churches at Sewickley and Waynesburg most efficiently. At one time he was a member of the faculty of Beaver college; later he traveled abroad and was for a time Chaplain of the old "Fighting Tenth." In all these departments of service he has been most energetic and successful.

The great Centenary effort to raise $115,000,000 was aided very materially by the voice and pen of Dr. Bash. The local M. E. church is fortunate in securing the two speakers Anniversary Day—Dr. Marsh and Dr. Bash.

DEPUTY COLLECTOR COLLECTING SPECIAL TAX

Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue W. R. Stevenson is at the post office building today collecting the stamp tax from pool rooms, moving picture theatres, taxi companies and dealers in narcotics. This is a special tax levied by the government. and is payable annually. In Monongahela Deputy Stevenson had forty applicants, and in Donora fifteen. In the latter town he found a moving picture proprietor who had been in business since February last, but who had not paid any war tax even on his admission. He did not take out his special tax. and the deputy gave him until Monday next to make his proper return. The proprietor is a Greek, who had come north from Mexico within the past year to go into the moving picture business.

The Willing Workers of the M. E. church will hold a bake sale in Southern Furniture Store. Fallowfield avenue, Saturday, June 25, from 1 to 5. 16-t2*

Miss Esther Robinson, of Harlan, Kentucky, is visiting with Miss Grace Anderson, of Crest Avenue.

OFFICIAL AGREES TO GIVE UP HIS OFFICE

I. N. Nixon, one of the members of the board of poor directors of Westmoreland county, has, according to reports, agreed to hand in his resignation and retire to private life. Not only has he agreed to tender his resignation, effective July 1st, but he will not be a candidate for re-election at the September primaries, as he had proposed.

J. M. Kennel, a Scottdale grocer, has, it is claimed, signified his willingness to pay into the treasury of the county about $300, which, it is said, was paid to him by the county for goods which he said he had delivered to persons in his neighborhood who were receiving outdoor relief from the county. It is alleged that the groceries paid for by the county were never delivered and that Dixon and Kennel were acting together.

Both denied the charge and Dixon insisted that the charity patients supposed to have gotten the groceries had not been visited by him for several months, although he was supposed to visit them at intervals.

Some weeks ago the county controller was notified that something irregular was going on with Scottdale dependents. An investigation followed and rather startling facts were developed.

The controller, county commissioners and district attorney held a lengthy conference at the time, and the county detective was put to work on an investigation. He gathered quite a lot of facts in connection with the case and both Dixon and Kennel were called in. Both protested innocence of any illegal act, but were confronted with the evidence, both agreed to the conditions suggested by the controller. County authorities will make no prosecution.

GOLF EDITOR AT THE VALLEY COUNTRY CLUB

E. Ellsworth Giles, golf editor of the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times, is a guest at the Monongahela Valley Country Club, where he will be entertained at lunch, and where he will meet the greens committee. He will also play over the course, accompanied by the professional and other members of the club. Mr. Giles is the architect of the Nemacolin Country Club course at Beallsville.

MORE INFORMATIONS FOR JURY FIXING

Six informations charging four prominent residents of Fayette county with attempting to influence jurors in liquor cases tried at the March term of criminal court were made Thursday morning before Alderman J. J. Michael. The accused men are D. Ferd Swaney of Georges township; Frank C. Monaghan of Uniontown; Edward Vernon of Brownsville; and Isaac Roderick, road supervisor of Georges township. Warrants were issued for the defendants.

FAYETTE COUNTY CRIME DECREASES

There has been a decided let-up in crime in Fayette county with the inauguration, some weeks ago, with the intensive crusade of the two units of the Pennsylvania State police working in co-operation with city police and constables from the different justices' offices of the county.

Crime in the county has decreased almost 25 per cent during the six weeks' period with a decided decrease in the number of hold-ups and robberies, one of the big contributing items to the rather astounding records for the period immediately prior. Any move to cut the police personnel of the county would, leading authorities say, result in an immediate outbreak of crime, perhaps on a larger and more pronounced scale than heretofore.

CRAGO'S NOMINATION PETITION IS FILED

The nomination petition of Thomas S. Crago, of Waynesburg, as the Republican candidate for Congress-at-large was filed at the State Department in Harrisburg on Thursday. The petition was certified to by Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, of Philadelphia, as acting chairman of the meeting of the Republican State Committee, which last Saturday nominated Mr. Crago as the republican candidate for the place made vacant by the death of Congressman M. M. Garland. The special election to fill the vacancy will be held at the primary election on September 20. The petition marks the first that has ever been received by the state department from a committee certified by a woman.

D. A. R. MEMBERS ATTEND PICNIC AT WASHINGTON

Ten members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, of Charleroi, were in Washington on Thursday, attending the annual picnic of Washington Chapter, held on the lawn of the home of Mrs. Zula McCutcheon, Jefferson avenue. Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, Vice-Regent of Pennsylvania, was the special guest of honor, and made an address. Eight different chapters of Western Pennsylvania were represented, and about 250 ladies were present for the occasion.

MARATHON COURSE FOR BIG ATHLETIC MEET MAPPED OUT

Runners to start at Monongahela and Come Thro Donora and Monessen

ENTRIES ARE COMING IN FAST

The course over which the marathon will be held in connection with the track and field meet on Saturday, July 2, has been mapped out. The course starts on Third street, Monongahela, in front of Oller's news stand, and continues through Black Diamond to Donora, following the car line to Schempp's book store, where it turns back, crossing the Donora bridge to Webster. Then it follows the brick road into Monessen as far as Second street, where it turns down to Donner avenue, and out Donner, passing Taylor's news depot to the Charleroi-Monessen bridge. Crossing the bridge it continues down McKean, passing Might's book store, to the ball grounds. Two laps around the ball park complete the twelve-mile course.

It is with great pleasure the committee announces that Might's book store, Taylor's news depot and Schempp's book store have each donated a handsome silver loving cup, to be awarded to the team scoring the most points, and to the winner and runner-up of the marathon. These trophies will be on display in the window of the John B. Schafer jewelry store.

Sport enthusiasts throughout the valley will be pleased to learn that Carl McGuire and Philip Bonsch will compete in the marathon. These athletes have won for themselves considerable fame throughout Western Pennsylvania and their performances on July 2 will be watched with much interest by their many friends. Joe Organ and some other marathon celebrities will compete in this race, which promises to be hotly contested along the entire rout.

Judging by the way entries are coming in from all parts of the valley the coming meet could well be called the Monongahela Valley Olympic meet. The Westinghouse Electric company is sending a full team of star athletes; Grimes, the Penn State short distance runner, is coming; and McCauley, A. M. A. one-mile champion has sent in his entry. All entries for the various events must be at Might's book store not later than Saturday.

Young Pinchot of Charleroi and Frankie Mason will battle for the fly-weight championship of America, at Akron, Ohio, this evening. Both will weigh in at 118 pounds. Local sports are of the opinion that Pinchot will win the decision.

The Ladies Aid of the M. E. Church will hold a home bake sale of pies, cakes, and bread on Saturday afternoon, June 25 in White Sewing Machine Office. 16t2*

TRAVELING BY STAGE COACH

In 1860 a Journey Between San Antonio, Texas, and San Diego, Calif., Was an Event.

A poster advertising overland stage travel between San Antonio, Tex., and San Diego, Calif., in 1860, has been found, which makes interesting reading these days of fast and palatial rail accommodation. "Overland to the Pacific" is the heading attracting public attention to the line. The poster calls attention to the fact that this line has been in successful operation for three years, and will convey passengers "in new coaches drawn by six mules over the entire length of our line, excepting the Colorado desert of 100 miles, which we cross on mule back."

According to the advertisement coaches left semi-monthly from each end, trips being started on the 9th and 24th of the month at 6 a. m. Attention was called to the fact that an armed escort accompanied the coach "for the protection of the mails and the passengers through the Indian country." It was stipulated that passengers were provided with food during the trip, except where the coach stopped at public houses enroute, when the passenger was expected to pay for his own meals. The fare between San Antonio and San Diego was $200, with less amounts charged between those stations and other points, such as Fort Clark, Tucson and El Paso, while it was announced that the fare to intermediate stations was 15 cents a mile.

VOLCANIC FIRES IN ALASKA

Torrent of Molten Sand Devastated Everything in Its Path for Some Fifteen Miles.

At a meeting of the American Society for the Advancement of Science, Dr. Robert F. Griggs described a fiery flood which occurred in Alaska, in the "Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes." Here he found traces of the flood of fire which, issuing from a fissure in the earth, swept a roaring torrent of molten sand through the fertile valley, devastating all in its path for a distance of more than 15 miles. From thousands of fissures live steam, heated gas and smoke issued. One could do one's cooking in any of the smaller holes. And that was the only salvation of the expedition, for all fuel had been destroyed by the flood of fire. It is only a few steps from the steaming fissures to a cave in the side of a glacier in order to have the most perfect refrigeration in the world. The explorers' tents were steam-heated, as it were, and the bathing conditions were of the best, for a stream from the glacier fed a crystal pure lake and in the middle of the lake a steam jet bubbled and it was possible to get any desired temperature.—Scientific American.

Be Square With Yourself.

The habit of making excuses to yourself and accepting them will soon undermine your intellectual stamina and begin to sap your moral fiber.

Be square with yourself at least. Tell yourself the truth, and take no excuses whatever.

List your faults and your failures, and blame yourself for them. List your bad habits, and try to get rid of them. Admit that it was indolence that made you let a job go over till it was too late to do it, and bad temper and not bad health that made you peevish with people who had a right to expect cheerfulness and courtesy from you.

Be your own severe but just judge. Make no excuses and take none. And you will soon find that you will need to make none, for you will have no derelictions to excuse.—John Blake in the Chicago Daily News.

All European references to the use of spectacles before the year 1270 are dubious. Pliny's description of Nero looking at the gladiatorial combats through an emerald means at best only a lorgnette, or most probably a reflecting mirror. Roger Bacon in 1276 seems to have known of magnifying lenses, which soon became common enough, but the probable inventor of spectacles, as such was a Florentine worthy on whose tombstone in the church of Santa Croce was the inscription:

"Here lies Salvino d'Armato degli Armati of Florence, the inventor of spectacles. Anno Domini 1317."

Thoreau Speaks of Whitman.

He said that I misapprehended him. I am not quite sure that I do. He told us that he loved to ride up and down Broadway all day on an omnibus, sitting beside the driver, listening to the roar of the cars, and sometimes gesticulating and declaiming Homer at the top of his voice. He has long been an editor and writer for the newspapers—was editor of the "New Orleans Crescent" once; but now has no employment but to read and write in the forenoon and walk in the afternoon, like all the rest of the scribbling gentry.—"Henry David Thoreau," by F. B. Sanborn.

Expensive Movie.

Flatbush—So you've quit taking your wife to the movies?

Bensonhurst—I've done just that.

"And why, may I ask?"

"Well, you see, every time she'd see 'em throwin' a pie it would make her mouth water, and after the show I'd have to take her some place and feed her."

Old Pump on Isle of Man.

On the quaint and picturesque Isle of Man, made famous by Hall Caine's fiction, an ancient pump of the chain-bucket variety, built into a masonry abutment on the face of a rock cliff lifts its endless load of water some eighty feet from the pool below, says an article in Popular Mechanics Magazine. For many years a big steam engine of obsolete form, slow and extravagant of fuel, attended to the duty of turning the chain shaft. But now the old boiler and cylinder are gone, and in their place a modern wind motor has been installed, its slim, efficient steel form rising from the cliff top in striking, yet not inharmonious, contrast with the primitive ruggedness that marks the earlier work of man and nature. The whirling 26-foot wheel of the new motive power now is drawing up 14,200 gallons of water an hour as an average figure, and it is significant of the value of modern method that the saving of fuel, no longer needed for a hungry boiler, soon paid the cost of the mill.

Changes in Federal Capital.

The capital of the United States has been located at different times at the following places: At Philadelphia from September 5, 1774, to December, 1776, at Baltimore from December 20, 1776, to March, 1779; at Philadelphia from March 4, 1777, to September, 1777; at Lancaster, Pa., from September 27, 1777, to September 30, 1777; at York, Pa., from September 30, 1777, to July, 1778; at Philadelphia from July 2, 1778, to June 30, 1783; at Annapolis, Md. from November 26, 1783, to November 30, 1784; at Trenton, N. J., from November, 1784, to January, 1785; at New York from January 11, 1785, to 1790; then the seat of the government was removed to Philadelphia, where it remained until 1800, since which time it has been in Washington.

Freedom.

Freedom is not a gift but an attainment. It does not characterize the state of nature, but flowers from the growth of personality and civilization. Action issues from character, and there is inner discord and the feeling of restraint, until the individual is happy and satisfied in his act and attitude. A divided will marks incomplete personality, and it is not a free will. Every man must win his own freedom. He must desire it enough to pay its price, and its price is the mastery of passions and appetites. As a man gains mastery over his own powers and desires he is free. Resolutions are good, because they witness to the sense of incomplete self-mastery and to the vision of greater self-control and freedom that are possible.—Minneapolis Journal.

Color in Diamonds.

Diamonds of bright tints, reds and greens and blues, are immensely valuable, but where the tint is slight, it only destroys the diamond's beauty. Color and tints are due to the presence of impurities. Testing the genuineness of a diamond is difficult, and only an expert can be absolutely sure. Imitation gems are made sometimes by cementing a thin layer of real diamond on a glass or other crystal body. If such a gem is placed in oil the division between the real and fake crystal can be seen. There are a few other crystals that will cut glass, so that this test is not fully reliable. Ordinary fakes can be detected by running a nail file over a corner of the gem. A diamond cannot be scratched. No acid will affect the brilliancy of a diamond.

The utility of the Blink microscope as a means of detecting the proper motion of the stars is absolute. In comparing photographic plates taken by this means at an interval of 25 years the smallest proper motion that can be detected is 1¼ second for the interval, or five seconds per century. According to Innes, there are about three such stars over each square degree on an average, or 120,000 in the entire sky. It is estimated that the number of stars with sensible proper motion will increase with the square of the time interval considered. Accordingly when plates taken at a century's interval are available, it should be possible to detect the proper motions of some two million separate stars.

The "Passion Play."

The Oberammergau "Passion Play," a dramatic representation of the sufferings of Christ, originated from a vow made by the inhabitants of the little Bavarian village in 1633, with the hope of staying a plague then raging. The original text probably was made by the monks of Ettal, but the parish priests have since carefully revised the text. The music was composed by Rochus Dedler in 1814. The play is given by amateurs in a purely reverential spirit, and not for gain. It requires a cast of about 700 persons. In 1901 an $80,000 playhouse was erected especially for the play, which is given every ten years. The first performance was given in 1634.

Strange South Pacific Birds.

The Solomon islands, in the Southern Pacific, are remarkable for some strange creatures. A bird called the megapode, for instance, about the size of a pigeon, lays an enormous egg, much larger than that of a goose. The natives do not attempt to tame this bird, though it is useful to them in supplying in abundance a palatable food. Beds of finely graded sand are prepared for them in which the birds like to make their nests. When laying, the birds are so fearless that natives working about do not disturb them in the least.

HIGH PRICES.

Loud cries of economy are being heard from many quarters, and Congress and the President have been made the butt of much recent criticism for not reducing expenditures even more than they have. But there is yet to be suggested an intelligent plan for putting into effect the further savings that those people are calling for. They all concede that Army and Navy must be maintained in a condition of adequate defense, that the Shipping Board cannot be abandoned when the Government owns a four-billion-dollar fleet, that interest and sinking fund payments must be made on the public debt, that the sums promised the railroads under the terms of the Transportation Act must be paid, and that a civil establishment must be kept at a sufficient size to insure the functioning of the Government.

Of course, all those things must be provided for, and the Republican Congress has provided for them with appropriations cut to the bone. If more savings can be effected let the critics indicate the specific point where they would apply the economy, rather than continue their monotonous call, "expenditures must be reduced." As a matter of fact there is nobody in the country more competent to frame the national appropriation bills than the men who are actually doing it in Congress. And there is not a man in the country more eager to save the people's money than those same Congressmen. In the framing of each bill officials called before the appropriation committees and questioned in minutest detail as to the actual necessity of every dollar that is asked of Congress. Those bills emerge from the committees, and later from the Senate and House, pared of every superfluous cent, and in that shape they become laws.

People must remember that the cost of living affects the Government just as it does everybody else. Big appropriation bills will always accompany high prices, and, in the present instance, the Shipping Board, railroad payments, big interest bills, and much of the general civil establishment are hangovers from the war, quite unknown in former peace times, but from which Congress cannot rid itself. Congressional critics would do well to cease their meaningless comparisons of present day expenditures with those of 1914, and devote themselves to pointing out a specific instance where a dollar can be saved. The Republicans in Congress will welcome and act on the suggestion if it is sincerely and intelligently made.

"I never knew a Congressman" said James A. Garfield, "Republican or Democrat, protectionist or free trader who did not favor protection for the articles produced in his district." Garfield was a close reader of books and a careful observer of men. He could cite numerous facts to support his statement, and there have been a number since his death.

Railroad presidents who are compelled to cut dividends and salaries (perhaps including their own) doubtless wonder at the "nerve" of Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, who has just procured or graciously accepted a raise from $14,500 to $25,000 a year.

John Wanamaker told a Salvation Army meeting recently that "people should keep only enough to live on comfortably." If the Salvation Army people judged by what it takes for Mr. Wanamaker to live "comfortably" they would feel free to "keep" some few times as much as they are likely to be able to lay hands on.

Mayor Hylan is doubtless glad that New York's "drink milk" week is over and he is relieved of the strain of trying to keep his promise to imbibe a full quart at luncheon every day.

Prof. Einstein says he has found in America "a sympathetic dealing with the theory of relativity and a truly detached scientific interest in it," but omits to state whether he found anybody who understood it.

In reducing prices while allowing wages to stay put, the "wizard of Detroit" becomes the envy of the manufacturing employer who has not yet figured out how he can do the like without going under.

Small boys hopeful of becoming multi-millionaires may be interested in John D. Rockefeller's announcement that he made his first dollar raising turkeys away back in 1848.

The starving are not always ungrateful after they have been fed. The name of a new street in Steyr, Upper Austria, is "Mr. Herbert Hoover Strasse."

Montreal's hangman made over twelve thousand last year. There is nothing remarkable about that. Other cities are doing as well.

It is a 3 per cent immigration law, but it ought to admit only 100 per cent Americans.

Babylonian Division of Time.

The Babylonians gave us an hour with 60 minutes. They divided the sun's path into 24 parasangs, a measure equal to about four and a half miles, or the distance a Babylonian soldier could hike in an hour with full pack. The astronomers of that day somehow worked it out that the sun made the same progress. They divided the sun's whole course into 24 parasangs, or 360 degrees, each parasang, or hour, being divided into 60 minutes, and then, having fallen on evil days, they handed the system down to the Greeks, who passed it on.

Decisive Battles of the World.

Sir Edward Creasy wrote a work on the 15 decisive battles of the world which he gives as follows: (1) Marathon, B. C. 490; (2) Syracuse, B. C. 412; (3) Arbela, B. C. 331; (4) Metaurus, B. C. 207; (5) Arminius, A. D. 9; (6) Chalons, A. D. 451; (7) Tours, A. D. 732; (8) Hastings, A. D. 1066; (9) Orleans, A. D. 1429; (10) The Armada, A. D. 1588; (11) Blenheim, A. CORN SENT BY GREAT SPIRIT

Indians Have Their Own Legend of the First Production of the Nourishing Cereal.

It is to the imaginative Ojibway that we are indebted for a beautiful legend of the origin of corn, and, according to this legend, for corn itself.

Ambitious for the advancement of his people, one of their leaders sought seclusion in the forest, and during a period of fasting and prayer appealed to the "Master of Life" for help to check the destructive wars among the nations. After seven days, Mondamin, a messenger from the Great Spirit, appeared and for four days this leader wrestled with him and, defeating him, buried the body under the leafy mold where it fell.

Through the whispering trees came the command from above to keep the soil loose above the resting place of the conquered spirit, and in a short time spears of green sprang up and with the autumn coloring came the ripening grain that was to be the food of the Indian forever. No longer was it necessary for them to depend for subsistence upon wild grains and game—the Great Spirit had supplied them with a wonderfully nourishing cereal, that mixed with dried meat sustained them in the arduous physical undertakings demanded by their primitive mode of living. Corn was the answer to the prayers for help in the advancement of the race.

Mondamin is still the "Friend of Man," but it appears to be sadly neglected by the present generation, possibly through ignorance of its nourishing qualities as a foodstuff and its cheapness.—From the Corn Bulletin.

Her Fatal Complaint.

Billy heard his mother say that a friend of theirs had died of old age. Later when a caller came to the house and inquired about the woman who had died, Billy informed her: "Oh, she's dead. She died of the long time."

The Scots and the English.

The Scots, who first lived in Ireland, settled in the land which now bears their name, Scotland. The Angles with other tribes from Germany settled in what came to be called Angleland or England.

Farm Machinery Imperative.

While it is impossible to determine the extent that modern farm implements have increased the production per acre, it is certain that it is only through their use that the large increase in population has been supported and sufficient labor liberated to permit of the present manufacturing and commercial activities in our towns and cities, and yet provide sufficient food with which to sustain the race. With the implements in use 60 or 70 years ago, no such condition of development as maintained today is thinkable.

President Zachary Taylor.

Zachary Taylor is one of the least known of our presidents. He held office only 16 months, but in that time he displayed such courage and strength of character as to endear himself to the people. He came to the office practically unknown and unknowing. His victories in the Mexican war had made him famous, but he was not known to the politicians, nor did he know any of them. He had been called "Old Rough and Ready," but he was not such a blustering, uncouth man as people had thought.

Early-Day Peddler.

An important merchant of centuries ago was the man who did your buying for you. In those days there were no mail-order houses nor was there such a thing as running into town to do your shopping. So there was evolved a professional shopper who made it his business to buy what was needed. He was known as a packer, packere, or pake-man, and from these words the modern names resembling them have sprung.

Water-Finder Finds Minerals.

A reader in Dorset, Vt., writes that he is a water-finder. He uses a forked stick but can not explain what power causes it to point downward when he is passing over water. Not only can he locate water, but by placing a small piece of lead in the end of the stick he is able to find lead when under the ground, once locating a buried pipe for a farmer. He can also locate copper.—Montreal Herald.

Castle Has Unique History.

One of the oldest and most fascinating English castles, "The Saltwood," near Hythe, has a unique history. The castle is over 1,550 years old. It was built by Otse, son of Hengist, in 448, and rebuilt by Henry de Essex, the king's standard bearer, in about 1100. The famous Thomas a' Becket's murderers met there in 1162 and laid their plans. During the reign of King John it was noted as the residence of the archbishop of Canterbury.

A Dog's Life.

A banjo manufacturer of Southwark, England, was fined for cruelty to a dog by keeping it on a chain. He was said to have admitted that the animal had been chained for 16 years, and had been out only once during that period. Afterward it was found to be dying and was destroyed with the owner's consent. The magistrate described the offense as sentencing a dog to canine penal servitude.

Maine's Famous College.

Bowdoin college is the oldest seat of learning in Maine, having been chartered in 1794 by Massachusetts, of which state Maine was then a part, and opened in 1802. It has sent out many notable graduates including Nathaniel Hawthorne, Franklin Pierce, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, William Pitt Fessenden, Sargeant S. Prentiss, Thomas B Reed and Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller.

Inconsistency.

As a Christmas present a wife will give her husband a pipe with enough brass trimmings on it to start a foundry. And then she will get mad if her husband doesn't swear off smoking on New Year's day just because the man next door has decided to swear off.—Arkansaw Thomas Cat.

Easy.

A distinguished London clergyman has two maids, both named Kate. One is a Cockney, the other a Scot. The difficulty of distinguishing the two is solved by the easy method of calling one Kite and the other Kate. No confusion ever arises.—London Post.

Question for Astronomers.

One bright moonlight night my little four-year-old sister was playing on the front lawn. Presently the little one gazed at the sky intently for a few minutes and then queried, "Oh, sis, when the sun sets does it hatch the moon?"—Chicago American.

Sound Reason.

Herbert, aged four, was irritated by the crying of sister Harriet, aged two. "Why don't you stop crying?" he asked his sister with great seriousness. "You must be sick. You don't look well, and you don't sound well!"

Many Kinds of Pigeons.

In all there are over two hundred varieties of pigeons. They are all descended from the rock-dove, a bird which makes its home among the sea cliffs of Europe. Pigeons do not favor trees, like other birds.

Weight of Light.

It seems odd to talk of such an unsubstantial thing as light as having weight. Yet such has been proved to be the case, and the principal proof came from tests made during the famous eclipse of the sun on May 29, 1919. It was then shown that a ray of light has sufficient "body" in it to be acted upon by the sun to the extent of being displaced by a certain definite amount. The light, in short, might for all the world have been matter, but matter of an extremely "light" kind. That being so, a facetious reader might ask how much of it goes to the ounce. But a brilliant astronomer has been able to calculate even that: it is an appalling amount. For example, the cost of light supplied by gas and electric light companies works out at something like £10,000,000 an ounce. Yet the sun gives us no less than one hundred and sixty tons of this valuable stuff every day.

Lungs and Gills, Too.

A rare creature which is a sort of link between fish and reptile is now on view at the New York zoo. It is called the lungfish and its ancestry has been definitely traced back 20,000,000 years. The fish was caught in Mary river in Australia. At present it is housed in a large glass aquarium. However, the freak thrives on land as well as in water. Zoo authorities finally hit upon a menu of ground meat and fish. When the lungfish comes out of the water it makes its home in the mud, drilling a cellular home. It will not partake of food except at night and eats nothing when living on land. It has a pair of lungs that sustain it when it is living the high and dry life and gills to make it at home in the water. When in the water the lungfish never come to the surface.

STRENGTH OF ORANG-OUTANG

If Properly Braced, It Is Said the Animal "Can Easily Bend Almost Anything."

The strength of a full-grown orang-outang is enormous. I have seen one bend a 1-inch steel bar as though it were made of rubber. If he can brace himself properly, with plenty of room to exert his entire strength, he can bend almost anything; but between bending a bar and breaking a rope by pulling, there is a great deal of difference. A rattan rope will hold him, though a sizable menagerie cage may not give him any more trouble than a paper hoop.

The strength of the orang-outang, or "wild man," as the name means in Malay, is largely in his arms. The arms of a male—the breed that we were after in Borneo—measure ten feet or more from tip to tip. The mias type, which is next in size to the gorilla, is somewhat larger than the ordinary breed. It is distinguished by a darker color and by folds of skin at each side of the face. Its body, from shoulders to hips, is about the size of a man's. It has short, undeveloped legs, long fingers and thumbs that are mere stubs.

An orang-outang never travels on the ground if he can swing from tree to tree, and, since there are very few open spaces in the jungle, he seldom reaches ground except when he goes down to get something. He can swing incredible distances, hurtling through the air and catching branches with perfect accuracy.

Orang-outangs usually live in colonies numbering from 40 to 60, and the largest and most powerful is chief. They make their homes on platforms in the branches of trees and they build the platforms by breaking off limbs and putting them crisscross. In mating season the male and female live together, but the couples separate after the young are born. The mother takes care of them and the father goes off about his business.—Charles Mayer in Asia Magazine.

INSECTS MAKE LEAVES 'WALK'

Queer Creatures Responsible for Odd Belief That Has Long Been Held in Australia.

There are some strange leaves in Australia which the people used to think could walk alone. Whenever there came a gust of wind these queer leaves blew off in a perfect shower. As leaves generally do, they turned over and over, and rested upon the ground. Then they would seem to crawl toward the trunk of the tree from which they fell. Since that time it has been found that these leaves, as they were thought to be, were real insects and lived upon those very trees. Their bodies are thin and flat and their wings veined, just like a leaf. If they are disturbed their legs, which are folded away under their bodies, leave their whole shape exactly like the leaf of a tree, with stem and all. Bright green in the summer, these singular little insects, chameleon-like, slowly change their color to a dingy brown, just like a leaf that has been frosted. It is strange that, with wings, they do not fly, but rather walk or crawl along the ground.

The City of London Brewery company, whose premises are offered for sale, claim to be the only brewery in the city of London existing from the time of Queen Elizabeth, and it is quite possible that the queen occasionally sampled their brew. Elizabeth was a specialist in ale. She liked it strong, as witness the plaintive note her host, the earl of Leicester, sent to Lord Burleigh: "There is not one drop of good drink for her here. We were fain to send to London and Kenilworth and divers other places where ale was; her own beer was so strong that there was no man able to drink it."

Testing Material in Cloth.

Mixtures of cotton and wool may be tested by raveling a bit of cloth and burning two of the threads, one running with the selvage, the other crosswise to it. The cotton thread burns quickly with a flame and smells like wood; wool chars slowly without a flame and smells like burning hair. Shoddy, or remanufactured wool, is often used with wool. This can be detected by raveling out a bit of the material, when short broken fibers may be seen. In general, a woolen material which has cotton in it will become more wrinkled when wet than all-wool goods.

Ancient Zoological Gardens.

Records show that King Nezahualcoyotl had zoological gardens in Tezcuco, Mexico, in the middle of the Fifteenth century, and in the next century Cortez found aviaries and fish ponds at Iztapalapan. Montezuma II, emperor of Mexico in the beginning of the Sixteenth century, had large collections of animals in the gardens of his capital.

Almost all of the modern zoological gardens date from comparatively recent years, and contain large collections of fine animals, more suitably housed than at any time in the history of the world.

Great Help.

"A new clerk in a police court is greatly helped by one thing."

"What is that?"

"The way prisoners understand procedure and routine."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

DISPUTE OVER USE OF CAVES

Scientists Disagree as to Whether They Were Habitations or Tombs of Primitive Race.

Curious caves in the Matsuyama hills, in the province of Saitama, near Tokyo, Japan, are believed by some to have been the homes of an ancient race called the Tuschigama, or Earth Spiders, who lived long before the ancient Ainos. Others think them to be tombs, while many are convinced that they are merely shelters used by the primitive tribe when pursued by enemies.

The caves are all on the southern slope of the hills, and command an extended view of a fertile valley. This strategic position argues for those who believe the caves to have been habitations and not tombs. About 200 of them have been unearthed. Seen from a distance they resemble a huge swallow bank. They are so close together that the inner walls almost touch, and are entered through a narrow, long, low passageway—so low in fact that a man cannot stand upright in the largest one. Each room is about six by nine feet in size; the ceiling is domed, and along the side is a ledge raised about nine inches from the ground. This was doubtless covered with leaves, and used as a bed.

No tools, weapons or household articles have been unearthed and there are no drawings on the walls, nor any sign of a pathway outside. The only light comes from the passageways. The caves are practically unknown and no visited, except by a few scholars

REASON FOR COLORED EGGS

Mother Nature Painted Them That They Might Be Preserved From Their Natural Enemies.

Nature equips all living things with protection of some kind against their enemies.

The larger animals are able, by reason of their strength, to give a good account of themselves in combat. Birds and many of the smaller animals depend upon the rapidity of their movements. But there is another effective means of self-preservation known as "protective coloration."

Snakes and many varieties of fish form an excellent illustration. Their scales are so colored that they blend with the surrounding rocks or the shadows of the water, making them almost invisible to the eye. In fact, it is only when one of these protectively colored animals moves that its presence is apparent.

The same principle is responsible for the different colors of birds' eggs. The mother bird is unable to fight aggressively, so she has to seek refuge in flight. During the time she is away from the nest, either seeking safety from her enemies or looking for food, the eggs must be protected in some manner. It is for this reason that they are colored to blend with the surroundings in which they are laid—some of them spotted because they are laid in the sand or among pebbles, others buff-colored or green to match the material of the nest.

Peculiarity of Dreams.

A curious hint is given by dreams of things which are impossible subjects, it would seem, of thought. I hardly know how to tell my meaning, but fellow dreamers will be able to interpret by their own experience. We have dreamed something, it was clear, the impression lingers when we wake. But it is not reducible to terms of thought, much less words. We have no grasp on it as an image or a sensation, yet in some remote corner of ourself we know perfectly what it was. It is not a matter of having forgotten—the thing is inexpressible to others or ourself. Only itself knows what it was, and itself is buried away somewhere within us. When vainly trying to master the conception of the fourth dimension we are reminded of those dreams.—Exchange.

In this time of commemorating the Pilgrims, the people of Pemaquid, Maine, rise to remind the world that a colony of English settlers landed at Pemaquid about fourteen years before the little company that crossed on the Mayflower debarked at Plymouth. Pemaquid had developed into quite a trading colony before the Plymouth settlers managed to gain a foothold in the new country, and the Maine settlers provided the Pilgrims with a large quantity of food, according to the records, when appealed to by Governor Bradford. At Pemaquid may still be seen the remains of a fort that was erected in 1699 at a cost of £20,000, which was two-thirds of the entire appropriation of Massachusetts, which then included Maine, for that year.

The Man With the Toe.

Here is an extract from an article in the Geographical Magazine, in which the writer describes the laborious culture of rice on hillsides in the Yangtze valley:

"The roily water makes the hoeing of his rice field impossible; so he does not hoe it, he toes it. With bare foot he feels about the plant with his toes, and if he finds a weed, he toes it out; then presses the dirt firmly in place again. With his right foot he toes two rows, with his left foot he toes four rows as he goes. That's the way he hoes."

White men can never expect—nor should be expected—to compete with this sort of thing.—Los Angeles Times.

Restoring Luster of Pearls.

Although there is no method known that will positively guarantee the restoration of the luster of a pearl which has become dull through careless handling, the Ceylonese are said to have a novel way of trying to restore it. They simply feed dull pearls to chickens. After the pearls remain in the chickens' crops a few hours, the fowls are killed and the pearls removed. The light friction to which they have been subjected in the crops of the chickens is supposed to restore their luster, at least to some extent.

"Elephant's Ear."

The "elephant's ear" is a Hawaiian or Fijian plant, with very large, bright green leaves, used to give subtropical effect in bedding. The root-stock is planted in good, moist soil out of doors or started in a bottled or a greenhouse and transplanted. In the fall it is stored where dampness and frost cannot reach it. In the Pacific islands the root-stock is used for food extensively, the poi of Hawaii being made from it. The plant is called taro.

Popular Songs.

"It is a mistake I believe, to set too strongly, on the theory that to the public should be doled out only those things which certain authorities think they should have," said a prominent singer recently. "Let us consider the public's side. Let us give the public some of the things it really wants—even the simple song which the critic condemns for its excess of sentiment, if we can deliver it so that the public is touched and responds."

Mistakes We Often Make.

There is a proverb which reads—"The man who never made a mistake never made anything else." There is a great deal of truth in that saying. Sometimes we come across one of those perfect individuals who claims never to make mistakes, but more often we find that these very same folks do not only make mistakes but very grave ones.

Long Shoe Points.

At one time—in the Fourteenth or Fifteenth century—people wore the points of their shoes so long that they were in danger of tumbling over them when they walked. To overcome this inconvenience it became fashionable for both men and women to tie their shoe points to their knees by laces or chains.

The center of population is the center of gravity of the population of a country, each individual being assumed to have the same weight. In the United States the center of population has followed the parallel of 39 degrees latitude and has moved in a westward direction during the last 125 years.

Care of Eyeglasses.

To prevent the annoyance caused by the accumulation of moisture upon eyeglasses when going from a cold into a warm atmosphere, moisten the tips of the fingers and rub them over a cake of soap, then rub lens and polish as usual. One application daily is all that is necessary.

Imparting the Truth.

There can be no doubt that the proper way of conveying to my understanding a truth of which I am ignorant, or of impressing upon me a former persuasion of a truth with which I am acquainted, is by an appeal to my reason.—William Godwin

Early Irish Coin.

One of the early coins in Ireland was the eagle, made of base metal and current about 1272, but an earlier coin was the farthing, made of silver, during the reigns of King John, and now very rare and of great value.

The Median Wall.

The Median wall, in ancient history, was a wall north of Babylon, extending from the Tigris to the Euphrates, built as a defense of Babylonia.

SHORN HEADS PLACATED GODS

Sea Captain Employed an Ancient Practice and the Threatening Gale Ceased to Blow.

The women prayed, the second mate cussed and Alex Jacobsen, "the albatross," swallowed a glut of vodka straight. Still the gale blew furiously. By the Beaufort scale the wind was eleven force, and this in English means a hurricane.

All this happened March 15, when the Norwegian-American liner Bergensfjord was steaming westward on her run from Bergen, says the New York Tribune.

Ole Bull is a young navigator, with hard common sense, who worked his way to the captaincy of the steamship Bergensfjord. He had been in storms before, but the one that came up suddenly March 15 was more than a practical man could handle.

At last an ancient superstition of the sea came to the mind of Captain Bull, and he sent forthwith for the ship's barber.

"Hendrik," he said, "how many shears and clippers have you stowed below?"

"Twenty," said the barber.

"Bring them up and cut the hair of all my men, beginning here on me. There is a superstition, Hendrik, which my father used to tell me of. When storms refuse to yield to man it pleases much the gods if sailormen part with their shaggy locks. Delilah conquered Samson with the shears and we must use them now."

Hendrik brought his clippers forth and soon the heads of all the staff were shorn. With the shearing of the hundredth sailorman the wind began to ease. When every man had parted with his hair the barber called a stewardess to his chair, but just before his clippers touched her head the furious hurricane went dead. The Bergensfjord arrived here with almost a hairless crew.

LATIN IS FOUNDATION OF ALL

Although a Dead Language, Oregon Professor Asserts You Find It Wherever You Turn.

"Latin is a living force in daily life and all other studies are in overwhelming debt to it," says Prof. F. S. Dunn, dead of the department of Latin in the University of Oregon, in a bulletin which he has written for the Latin teachers in the high schools and colleges of Oregon.

"The teacher," he says, "must read English from out the Latin and Latin from out the English; must see geometry, biology and physics in Caesar; must conjure legal phrases and doctor's prescriptions from Cicero's orations; must flash the 'Idyls of the King' and 'Paradise Lost' and 'The Faery Queen' across the pages of Virgil; must brand every paragraph with the Romance languages and Latin America and the Philippines; must see Rome in the clock dial, in the 10-cent piece, in a decimal fraction, in the almanac, in the days of the week, in the Sunday liturgy, in Oregon's seal, in the omnibus bill, in the ultimatum to Turkey, in an aeronaut or a submarine; in Montana or in Arizona; in Cincinnati or in Olympia; in Lucy or in Gus; in patrimony or matrimony or alimony, it matters not which, for it is all Latin, anyway, and everywhere you turn."

Canada is about to make capital out of a substitute for the oyster which is found along the Atlantic coast, chiefly in New Brunswick. It is a mussel which is by no means a new article of diet to the people of Canada. Its delicacy of flavor and high food value have been much advertised since the establishment of government investigation and experiment. A survey of the mussel beds of the St. Croix river, which constitutes the boundary between New Brunswick and Maine, has occupied the attention of a scientist of the council for three years, and it is expected that this year will see the satisfactory conclusion of the research. The sea mussel cannot be produced in fresh water, so that there is no possibility of developing an industry in the Great Lakes. It is believed that there are possibilities, however, of the development of fresh-water clams there in the near future.

Inner Tubes as Ice-Bags.

Ice bags relieve the feverish patient, but they are not large enough to cool his entire body. An old inner tube will do a much better job, says the Popular Science Monthly.

You cut the tube at the place where the valve is, remove the valve, tie one end of the tube tightly and fill the tube with ice. Then tie the other end and you will have a long narrow ice-bag that may be placed at the side of the patient or even wrapped around him.

Busy Bible Circulators.

The 1919 issues of the American Bible society were 3,752,309 volumes. The same never sets on the representatives of this society, which asserts that some one is busy every hour of the day and every day of the year circulating the Scriptures. This total means that seven volumes were issued every minute of every hour of every day of the year.

TO ALL MY FRIENDS AND PATRONS!

Charleroi, Pa.

I have turned over my store and entire stock to the COLTON SALES CORP. for a period of thirty days, during which time they are to raise $25,000 for me. I know that in order for them to do that they will sacrifice my stock at a great loss to me, but as I must have the money, I am compelled to do this, and will not interfere with them, or hinder them in any way.

Come and partake of the bargains that they are offering. My misfortune will be your fortunate chance.

(Signed) C. BIAGINI.

LONGEVITY ON THE DECREASE

University Professor Thinks It Is, and Gives Some Cogent Reasons Why It Should Be.

Prof. Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins, after an exhaustive study of life probability extending through a historic period of two thousand years, arrives at the conclusion that while man's possibilities of life at birth and in earlier stages has been steadily improving, his expectation of life at advanced age has been steadily decreasing. Comparisons ranging from the Romano-Egyptian to the present day offer statistical proof. The theoretical explanation is that in early times, with less provision for the protection of babies and infants, only the more rugged pulled through. Nowadays with increasing care for childhood, the weak are carried into adolescence and adulthood. Were formerly only the fittest or toughest managed to reach the shady slope of life, and were consequently more likely to hang on to ripe old ages, the salvaging of the weaker brings them into the fifties and sixties with less hope of prolonged life. It sounds plausible and may explain the apparent decrease of longevity. Incidentally, his statistics brought out the fact that while women formerly had less expectation of life at all ages, this has been reversed—another blow to the tradition of "the weaker sex." Women now appear to have the greater probability of prolonged life.

KNOWS MACHINES HE BUILDS

Head of Great Locomotive Works Has More Than Business Acumen to His Credit.

On a hot day last summer an express train between Philadelphia and New York came to a jolting halt, says Nation's Business. The passengers first joked, then grumbled, then grew impatient. A big man, white-haired, but youthful in motion, climbed down from a observation car and marched up to the engine, which was the center of a ring of passengers.

"What's wrong?" he asked.

In effect, the engineer said that the engine had quit and he didn't know what the several things was the matter with it.

The big man peeled off his coat and waistcoat and rolled up his shirt sleeves. Then he sort of disappeared in the interior of the unwilling engine and the ring of watching passengers grew.

Half an hour later he emerged with a smudged face and grimy hands, and said, "She's all right now," put coat and waistcoat over his arm and walked back to his chair car, wiping his hands on a handful of waste he'd picked up in the cab.

She was all right, and the man who made her all right was Samuel Matthews Vauclain, millionaire president of the Baldwin Locomotive works, and a real boss of their 20 000 workmen.

Airplane an Essential Now.

In 30 minutes after the Birmingham office of a Shelby county mine operator had gotten in touch with the mine rescue station at West End, experts at the station had engaged an airplane and with special life-saving apparatus had been landed at the mine, 30 miles distant.

This marks a new field of usefulness for the airplane. Physicians, life-saving experts and mine-rescue apparatus may be carried through the air to the scene of a mine disaster and many lives may be saved by this quick service.

When the airplane has evolved into a medium for the saving of human life, it may indeed be said to have entered the class of the essentially practical.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Work of Y. W. C. A. Abroad.

Secretaries of the newly organized Y. W. C. A. in Krawok, Poland, were surprised recently to have a membership card of the Cleveland (O.) Young Women's Christian association presented to them by a young girl who was on her way to America. The girl proved to have a sister living in Cleveland who had taken out membership in the International Institute of that city, and then sent the card to the traveler as a guarantee of assistance along the way. Girls as young as twelve and sixteen are passing through the Y. W. C. A. office in Poland on the way to America.

The remarkable difference in prices of tennis rackets is not so much due to the difference in the cost of the raw materials of which they are made as to the kind and amount of labor on their making, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. Best tennis rackets are works of art, and the skill of the worker is reflected in the price, as much as in any other article belonging to sport and athletics.

GAME POSTPONED ON ACCOUNT OF RAIN

The base ball game which was to have been played at the local park last evening, between Charleroi and Belle Vernon teams, was called off on account of rain. Each team had secured the services of an imported twirler, Hilty being on the staff of the Charleroi team, while "Lefty" Williams of Youngstown, Ohio, would have done the twirling for the Belle Vernon team. The game will be played some time later in the season.

INDEMNIFYING BOND NOT YET FILED

The indemnifying bond, which was to have been mailed to the commissioners on Thursday, indemnifying the county against damages that might arise in the improvement of the Speers-Coal Center road, was at the last minute withheld. It will be filed within a few days after a certain technical objection has been removed.

LOGAN RUSH WAS ACQUITTED OF CHARGE

Logan Rush, of Connellsville, was acquitted Wednesday afternoon in the Fayette county courts, on charges of embracery, but directed to pay the costs, by a jury after deliberation. Only two ballots were taken, the first acquitting, and the second placing the costs on him. The case was one of the hardest fought of the present session of the Fayette county courts.

The California base ball team will play the Charleroi team of the Press League, at the local park, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, instead of 3:30.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN URGED TO REGISTER

Mrs. J. N. O'Neil, chairman of the Woman's Republican County Committee of Washington county, was in Washington on Thursday, attending the D. A. R. reception given at the home of Mrs. Zula Miller McCutcheon of Jefferson avenue. While there Mrs. O'Neil met a number of persons interested in the success of the Republican party, and spoke of the future activity of the women and their being taken into the counsels of the party. Mrs. O'Neil, among other things, advised the Republican women of the county to register for the coming election.

CHARLEROI ATHLETIC MEET IS IN POPULAR FAVOR

According to a statement made by John T. Taylor, A. A. U. representative for Western Pennsylvania, more applications have been made for entry blanks for the marathon and athletic meet to be held in Charleroi on Saturday, July 2, than for any other similar event to be held at that time in this section of the state. Among the entries received on Thursday was one from Arthur Vaughan, a well known marathon runner, who will carry the colors of the P. A. A. The local meet appears to be attracting one of the finest lists of athletes ever gathered together for such a competition.

REMOVE PLATE TO STRAIGHTEN FRAME

It was found necessary on Thursday to remove the big plate glass window from the office front of the Hotel Charleroi in order to readjust the frame, part of which had been pushed out of place by the impact of an automobile late Wednesday afternoon. The big plate glass was not injured, but it was deemed advisable to strengthen the frame rather than to take any chances of a future accident. The plate and frame are now in the same position they were prior to the accident.
